

UNITED STATES NATIONAL WAR COLLEGE ROTUNDA

"No other publication reaches farther up the command chain to senior top level commanders of all branches of the Armed Services."

The National War College, located at Fort Leslie J. McNair in Washington, DC invites your participation in the NWC's official annual, the Rotunda, honoring the senior leaders of today's Armed Forces. The National War College was officially established on 1 July 1946. General Colin Powell, former Secretary of State and NWC alumnus from the Class of 1976 said in his recent address at the National War College: "It was here that I learned more about my profession of arms, not just the Army part, and how that element of national power connects with all elements of national power." The National War College mission is to prepare the leaders of the Armed Forces, State Department, and other civilian agencies for high-level policy, command, and staff responsibilities. The NWC program is designed to expand and enhance students' knowledge of national security issues and to sharpen their analytical skills. The curriculum focuses on the integration of national power and national security policy, the theory and practice of war, the domestic and international context of national security strategy, contemporary military strategy and joint and combined warfare. The Rotunda, the NWC's only hardbound publication, permits military vendors to showcase their products or services in a prestigious publication that receives extensive distribution throughout the DoD and the Pentagon. No other publication reaches farther up the command chain to senior top level commanders of all branches of the Armed Services.

The NWC welcomes your participation, and invites you to add your name to the impressive list of corporations already committed to this year's exquisite and prestigious Rotunda! To reserve your company's space in this historic annual please call the Program Manager Mr. Michael Massicott at 800 891-2828 Extension 1162 or mike@pentagon-usa.us
